

Ben SEIBERT

Ben has been part of the UPI team since 2012. He attended college at The Ohio State University, where he majored in agriculture systems management. Prior to joining UPI, Ben worked in various agronomy and ag technology related roles.

“Prior to working at UPI, I had utilized its livestock and credit services personally and found the company to be of outstanding character. I wanted to be part of helping other families get the same outstanding treatment,” said Ben. “My favorite part of my job is meeting new families and working with them to be the most productive and profitable they can be on their farms.”

Ben and his wife of 15 years, Carolyn, have three very active young boys. Outside of work, Ben works on his family’s farm raising beef cattle and grain crops. In his spare time, he enjoys hiking, skiing and fishing and camping with his children.
